

The House of Jeff Dahmer's Grandmother So Without Any Problems

The house was put up for sale before Jeff even pled "guilty."

According to the official narrative, Jeff Dahmer supposedly dismembered four people in the basement of his grandmother's house: Steve Tuomi, James Doxtator, Richard Guerrero, and Anthony Sears.

Four people. That's a regular butcher shop, no?

But it gets even better. The bodies of Tuomi and Doxtator supposedly lay in the basement for a week before Jeff dismembered them in the basement. Jeff's grandmother never stumbled onto them, and they never stunk up the house. Have a look at the clutter in the basement of his grandmother's house.

A couple of screenshots:

Do you think you could chop up four bodies in that cluttered basement without suspicion from the home's other occupant?

Grandma Catherine describes Jeff:

The Sacramento Bee

‘You think you’ve seen it all out here, and then something like this happens.’

— Rolf Mueller, police officer

County Sheriff’s Department records said.

Dahmer’s grandmother, Catherine Dahmer, said that her grandson had not seemed well on recent visits to her house. “The last two times I saw him, he was terribly thin,” she said.

He had been a church-going youth, she said, and “he does know his Bible,” she said, adding that he was “more or less a loner. He’s very quiet to himself.”

But she said, “He has an awful lot of love for me. He never left without giving me a big hug.”

Note that Rolf Mueller, the alleged “arresting officer,” didn’t testify at the “trial.”

If you’re wondering what happened to Jeff Dahmer’s grandmother’s house, given people were supposedly murdered and dismembered in it, the answer is nothing house was put up for sale in August 1991 before Jeff even pled “guilty.”

The image shows a small, low-resolution version of the real estate listing document. It includes two small photographs of the house, a title page with a 'NOT SHOT' stamp, and several pages of detailed property information and legal disclaimers.

Real estate listing for Jeff Dahmer's grandmother's house

Excuse the small image. This was an item for sale on Cult Collectibles. I enlarged it so the text is easier to read:

This is a larger, clearer image of the same real estate listing document. It features two large photographs of the house at the top, followed by a 'NOT SHOT' stamp. Below this is a title page with a 'PLEASE POST' stamp. The main body of the document contains extensive property details, including dimensions, room counts, and various features like fireplaces, porches, and garages. There are also several legal disclaimers and signatures at the bottom.

Note the upgrades to the house, including a new furnace and hot water heater. This means at least two work crews entered the house and performed work in the basement. Apparently, they didn't notice anything amiss either.

Catherine Dahmer's house was sold as normal despite the years of alleged "atrocities" because none of it was real. We don't know what date the house was sold. However, Ancestry.com shows someone living in the house in 1993:

The screenshot shows a digital record card from Ancestry.com. At the top, it says "in the U.S., Public Records Index, 1950-1993, Volume 1". Below this is a table with the following data:

Detail	Source
Name	[Redacted]
Birth Date	10 Dec 1900
Residence Date	1976
Address	1748 S 72nd St
Residence	Milwaukee, WI
Postal Code	53214-4712
Second Residence Date	1993
Second Address	2357 S 57th St
Second Residence	Milwaukee, WI
Second Postal Code	53219-2215
Third Residence Date	1993
Third Address	2357 S 57th St
Third Residence	West Allis, WI
Third Postal Code	53219-2215

At the bottom left is a "Save" button. On the left side of the card, there are links for "Add or update information" and "Report a problem".

The Milwaukee Police apparently decided they didn't need to dig around the house based on Jeff's word alone:

At this time myself, Det. KENNEDY, along with Attorney Wendy PATRICKUS, were informed that detectives from the West Allis Police Department also would like to speak with Jeffrey DAHMER and they were admitted into the interview room. At this time Det. NOVAK and Det. RISSE, entered the interview room and questioned the suspect Jeffrey DAHMER regarding the possibility of any bones or materials left over from the victims which he had murdered at his grandmother's house located in West Allis. The purpose of this was to determine whether or not a search warrant would be needed in order to dig up areas around his grandmother's house. At this time Jeffrey DAHMER stated that there would be no need to get a search warrant because all of the bones were disposed of in the trash and carried from the home. He denied burying any of the bones or personal affects of his victims which he killed in the West Allis home, anywhere on the property in West Allis and he denies spreading the bones around any other area in West Allis. He stated that all of his victims were disposed of through the trash and taken away by West Allis public trash collection. At this time they also questioned Jeffrey DAHMER regarding the instruments he used to cut up his victims in West Allis, to which he stated he is unsure what type of knife he used, however he is positive it was not a kitchen utensil from his grandmother's kitchen, that he bought the knife and disposed of the knife the same way he did the body, that being through the trash.

It's all pretty silly, isn't it? The entities behind this fake news story think the pub stupid.

And there were also the discrepancies with 'convictions' without any remains for Doxtator & (whom we have since discovered are still very much alive, and likewise for Tuomi (but no 'conv' there despite far more potential circumstantial & forensic evidence in the story presented), for an address listing was found recorded in 1991, years after the alleged event.

In reality, a case like that would warrant a thorough investigation of the house, let alone even entertaining allowing it to be put up for sale within weeks of such an 'arrest' and before admitting 'guilt'.

And in what world do the police take advice from the alleged perp that there's no need to see video of grandma Dahmer also shows she had no problems getting down into that basement. She would know what went on in her house. If Jeff went to lengths to try and hide porn from his grandmother, it's highly unlikely he'd be trying to hide bodies in her house for days & cooking them up on Thanksgiving. Interesting that despite years of living with his grandma while all these alleged events were going on, not a single neighbor noticed anything strange or were called as witnesses.

And the cherry on the cake, the house sold on as normal. After workmen carried out renovations to the basement of doom, without noticing a thing. Because nothing happened there. Interesting though.
