They Said I Stole It. So Here's the File She Sent Me.

[INTRO – SCREEN ONLY, YOUR VOICE]

Narration:

"Hi. I'm making this short video to respond to a claim that's been circulating.

Some people are now saying I wasn't the one who did the research into the fake news story about Jeff Dahmer. That I stole someone else's work.

That's not true—and it's not hard to prove.

Let me show you something."

Visual:

- Show your desktop
- Hover over and open the file: Jeffrey Dahmer.FINALDRAFT.pdf

[PART 1 – FILE PROPERTIES: DESCRIPTION TAB]

Narration:

"This is the PDF I was sent—months before the book was ever released.

You'll see it's titled FINALDRAFT, created and last modified on September 6, 2024.

The author name is Killbic 123. The file was exported directly from Microsoft Word."

Visual:

- Go to File > Properties > Description
- Highlight file name, author, date created/modified, and application

[PART 2 – FILE PROPERTIES: SECURITY TAB]

Narration:

"Now here's what's more important—there are no protections on this file.

I could edit it, print it, extract pages. Everything was allowed.

This wasn't a sample copy. It wasn't redacted. It wasn't locked.

This was a final draft—with full access. Given to me."

Visual:

- Switch to Security tab
- Scroll through permissions: All marked Allowed

[PART 3 – VOICEPRINT SECTION]

Narration:

"Some of you may have seen videos about this case on her YouTube channel.

What you may not know is that some of those videos were made by me—and they contain my real voice.

She never removed them. Why would she want to do that? They're good videos.

Here's what I sound like."

Visual:

- Play a short (10–15 sec) clip of one of your original videos posted on her channel
- Caption it: "Original voice Made by me"

Narration (transition):

"And here's what one of her newer videos sounds like."

Visual:

- Play short clip from EB's newer video with AI narration
- Caption: "Newer video Al voiceover"

Optional closing line (subtle):

"You decide who was behind this work. And who's just sitting in front of it."

[CLOSING - SCREEN + YOUR VOICE]

Narration:

"I'm not here to fight for attention or argue online.

I'm here to protect the truth. And the truth comes with receipts.

This work was never stolen.

It was trusted to me.

And now I'm protecting it."

Final screen text:

"The truth doesn't panic. It just proves itself."

SUBSTACK ARTICLE

Title:

fruth."

Post Text: